BANKERS COMBINE BUSINESS, PLEASURE

Annual Meeting and Dinner Held at Antioch Palace Wednesday

400 PEOPLE ATTEND DINNER

By far the largest gathering of bankers in the history of Lake county assembled Wednesday at the Antioch Palace for the annual meeting and dinner of the Lake County Federation of Bankers. The meeting was opened at 4:30 with a business session with G. Carroll Gridley, president of the First National Bank of Libertyville, presiding.

Lake Forest Man Chairman

Officers for the ensuing year were elected. Philip N. Speldel, vice president of the First National Bank of Lake Forest, was elected chairman; Carl W. Stenger, president of the Waukegan Trust and Savings bank, was chosen vice chairman; R. L. Erskine, Highland Park State Bank, secretary; S. Hoyer Nelson, cashier of the First National Bank of Antioch, treasurer. G. Carroll Gridley, who was last year's chairman, was named delegate to the state convention to be held at Springfield.

Following the business meeting the annual dinner was held. Four hundred members and guests were present. Preparations had been made for three hundred but late reservations swelled the number to four hundred. Harris and company, who provided and served the dinner were able to cope with the situation.

Dinner Program Is Enjoyed

The address of welcome was given by C. K. Anderson, president of the First National Bank of Antioch and was responded to by J. M. Appel, president of the Hyde Park State Bank.

Between addresses the "College Four" of Chicago, a quartette of professional entertainers, furnished entertainment and kept the crowd amused. They were masters at their art and responded to encore after encore.

Axel Christensen, an entertainer of international fame, seemed to be at his best, delighting the audience particularly with his character interpretations.

Following Mr. Christensen's entertainment, Wm. W. Geary, Sales Manager of Carson, Pirie, Scott and company was heard. Mr. Geary gave a business talk on the subject, "Human Nature" which was well received. He gave many valuable suggestions and pointers for bankers and business men in general.

Following the program the bankers and their friends made merry, some bowling, some playing pool or billiards; but the greater number dancing to the fine music of Frank Wallin and his Kings of Harmony.

Members and their friends were unanimous in their praise of the Antioch Palace as an assembly and amusement place, and the feeling was universal that this was the most successful meeting ever held by the Lake County Federation of Bankers.

THREE CANDIDATES ASK

HOSPITAL APPOINTMENT

At the meeting of the board last week petitions were filed by Drs. K. M. Beck and Howard Hoag before the board of supervisors, each seeking appointment as County Physician and Superintendent of Lake County General Hospital. Previously Dr. Hugo Brannan filed an application and last week a recommendation for Dr. Brannan was filed. Recommendation also accompanied the petition of Dr. Hoag.

Dr. Beck is at present acting county and physician and superintendent at the Lake County General hospital, having held that post several months past, during the absence of Dr. Charles Lieber. Although the term of office does not expire until July first, it is thought that the filing of a petition by Dr. Beck makes it practically certain that Dr. Lieber will not return to the position.

Dr. Hoag has been city health physician for the past three years. All are Waukegan men.

No action was taken by the board, the matter being merely referred to the committee. It is assumed that no decision will be given until the June meeting as the post is not vacant until July 1.

Grade School Board Employs Teachers

The newly elected members of the grade school board met with the rest of the board last week in a re-organization meeting, the chief business of which was to employ teachers for the coming year.

The teachers now on the force were re-employed for 1927-1928. They are: W. C. Petty, Principal; Miss Elizabeth Tonton, Assistant Principal; Miss Maude Pierce, Opportunity room; Miss Mary Hynek, 3rd and 4th Grades; Mrs. Fern Lux, 1st and 2nd Grades.

Mrs. Ethel Pesat, newly elected board member took her seat. Mrs. Edna Warriner succeeded herself, and S. E. Pollock filled the office of president to which he was again chosen in the recent election.

WEST KENOSHA COUNTY FAIR ELECTS DIRECTORS

At a meeting of the West Kenosha County Fair Association held last week at Wilmet it was decided to change the number of directors from 12 to 16. Four of the members will serve for one year; four for two years; four for three years; and four for four years.

Members re-elected to the directorate were Wm. Luke, R. S. Ihlenfeldt, R. T. Bufton and George Dean. Four new members were chosen to fill the one year terms. They were Harry Lubeno, John Sutcliffe, Ken Kaskan and George Vincent.

Wm. Luke was re-elected to the office of president by the directors; R. S. Ihlenfeldt re-elected vice president; R. T. Bufton who has been the secretary of the organization since its beginning was chosen for that post again; and George Dean was elected treasurer.

Efforts have been made recently to have the fair moved away from Wilmet but thus far they have been successful.

News Notes From Neighboring Towns

Barrington is to have new street signs erected at 88 street corners throughout the city. As soon as the signs are up free mail delivery will be inaugurated.

A number of surrounding towns, following the example of Chicago, have gone on a daylight saving schedule of time recently. Waukegan changed the clock Sunday as did also Barrington and most of the towns between Milwaukee and Chicago on the North Shore Line.

The Waukegan grade school board accepted the sketches of C. W. Webster, Waukegan architect for the new $70,000 school building to be erected this year. The building is to be placed at the corner of Grand and Lewis avenues and will be used to house grade students.

The village of Wauconda recently let a contract for a paving project in that village to the Western Improvement company of Zion, the contract price being in the neighborhood of $46,000. The main street of the village is to be widened for about a mile and a half.

Reports of the activities of "Neck-tie Tyler" again appear in neighboring towns. The Harvard Herald reports that the Harvard postoffice has been flooded with a new supply. Four ties are enclosed in a package and $1.25 is asked for them. The correspondence either states or implies that the sender is a blind man in need of charity. Investigations have shown that the head of the concern sending the neckties out not only has good vision but his executive faculties are well developed.

Joseph Treck who lives in Berwyn, Ill., is out under bond this week, after having been arrested on a charge of operating a confidence game. Twenty-five warrants were issued for his arrest. Complaints stated that Treck offered to sell their milk and took the produce to market for a month and then failed to pay them. Reports from Woodstock indicate that his activities were largely in that section. Treck's wife was also arrested, having issued a bad check in payment of some of the accounts held against the concern by irate farmers. She was removed to Cook county where a new warrant was issued for her arrest.

MAPS OF LAKE REGION ARE NOW COMPLETED

Beautiful Two Color Map Made Possible by Efforts of Antioch Business Men's Club

Maps of the Antioch Lake Region, produced under the auspices of the Antioch Business Club, are finished and are ready for distribution. This brings to completion a project which has occupied the attention of the club since February.

Several times private individuals have investigated the possibility of having such a map made, but have found the cost of production too great for one individual or firm to stand. It remained for the business club to sponsor the measure in order to make it a reality.

Beginning last February, a committee, headed by Frank R. King, who was the original proposer of the map, has been devoting every effort to the completion of the maps so that they might be ready for use this season. Other members of the committee are: John C. Nixon, A. M. Kral, H. B. Gaston and Richard Macek.

The work of drafting the maps was done by A. M. Kral who submitted several maps for the consideration of the committee and for alterations for accuracy and detail. After all the factors had been taken into account, the committee decided upon a large map which would show the lake region in detail and a smaller map, to be printed on the back of the other, which would show the lake region in relation to Chicago, Waukegan, Kenosha and other Illinois cities and mark out the main routes therefrom.

After completion of the maps by Mr. Kral they were put in the hands of the Catalogue Engraving company of Chicago, who made the plates from which the maps are to be printed. The engraving company were enthusiastic in their praise of the map drawings, pronouncing them to be as artistic as any that had been submitted to them.

Maps to be Obtained From A. B. C.

The maps have been printed by The Antioch News and a supply of the finished maps is now in the hands of the Antioch Business club. Representatives of the organization will call on the business men, resort owners and all of those interested in the distribution of the maps. Copyright for the plates is the possession of the Antioch Business Club and map or use of the plates can be secured only through them.

The finished map is 9 1/2 x 12 inches and shows the lake region in detail with lakes, towns, railroads, coach lines, highways and other roads plainly marked, together with routings to and from Antioch and the leading villages and cities of the region.

On the reverse, a smaller map shows routes to the lake region from Chicago, and lake shore and other nearby towns. The maps are to be folded and enclosed in a folder which makes the entire assembly into a handy little vest pocket reference map set.

Unexcelled as Advertising Medium

Without a doubt this will prove the most valuable advertising that the lake region has ever had. The Business Club hope to place 100,000 copies of the maps in the hands of distributors within the next few months. Other more distant and far less beautiful lake regions have had far more publicity in the past than the lake region of northern Illinois, with its unparalleled recreation facilities. This is the situation that the business club started out to remedy and their choice fell upon the maps as the most effective single publicity measure possible.

To owners of businesses and resort the maps offer unexcelled advertising advantages. Both the cover and the back of the map itself offers opportunities for advertising display space. Besides this maps may be purchased with the name and location of the particular business or resort marked in red on the large map. In this way the distributor of the map may provide his prospective customers with a map specially designed to guide them to his location and still contribute to the fame of the lake region. He will thus form an endless chain of publicity which will help his business to grow more prosperous with the increasing popularity of the region.

ANTIOCH PALACE OPENS WITH RECORD CROWD

Thousands Turned Away on First Night Because of Traffic Congestion

Probably the largest gathering of pleasure seekers ever assembled in one place in Lake county thronged the Antioch Palace on its opening night last Saturday. More than four thousand people gained admission to the hall; and it was estimated that over a thousand were turned away by state police who found it necessary to clear the traffic and prevent more autos from crowding into the center of the road, in an effort to park within walking distance of the pavilion.

Before the evening was well begun the six acres of parking space around the Palace had been utilized to the fullest extent under the supervision of the Antioch Firemen. Cars were parked in a close packed line on both sides of the road all the way from Loon Lake to Wedge's corner. Beside there were cars in great numbers up Beach Grove road and even the space around the filling station was packed with autos.

All of the amusement facilities of the big hall were taxed to the utmost by the crowd. Howling alleys, billiard and pool tables were in constant use. Soft drink and lunch counters did a capacity business, and the dance floor was crowded from the opening until a late hour.

Floridians Please

The Floridians under the leadership of Glomotti and Pupillo came up to expectations as a dance orchestra. Their music was especially popular with the audience for its tone quality and the arrangement of the musical score. The harshness and discord of the cheap jazz orchestras were noticeably lacking.

The decorations of the Palace and the lighting effects came in for much favorable comment from the crowd.

Mr. Macek was assisted at the opening by a committee of members of the Antioch Business club who acted as hosts, and by the local Firemen who made themselves generally useful wherever need occurred.

Antioch Defeats Avon In Practice Game Sunday

Cold Weather and Lack of Practice Slows up Both Teams

In the first game of the season the Antioch players shut out their Avon opponents Sunday on the latter's ground by a 1 to 0 score. The game was a good one considering the fact that neither team had played before this season and the weather was very cold for the sport. The contest was a practice game and not one of the regular schedule.

Three baggers by Lasco and Hildebrand were features of a day in which both teams had several opportunities to score but failed in the pinches. Batteries for the day were Drom, Britton and Simpson for Antioch and J. Wallace, H. Wallace and Brandisky for Avon. The pitching on both sides was exceptionally good, not one of the Avon players gaining a base on balls.

Sullivan scored the lone run of the game by getting a base on balls, making second on a sacrifice by Britton and scoring when B. Wallace threw into centerfield trying to catch Sullivan napping at second.

Both teams are members of Lake County Amateur League and should make a good showing in the race for the championship. Antioch had one of the best hitting teams in the county last year and, as the same team is together again this year, they should improve. The team spirit is good and with the support of the fans of Antioch and vicinity they should make a hard team to beat.

The personnel of the local team will be chosen from the following: L. Lasco, B. Steininger, A. Steininger, Geo. Steininger, Halwas, Simpson, Britton, Nelson, Drom, Morley, Hill, Sullivan, Allen, Nixon, Shunne.

County Board Selects Thompson As Chairman

Newly Elected Chairman Outlines Policies for Year. Favors Hard Roads Program

B. E. Thompson, for twelve years supervisor from Zion City, was elected chairman of the board of supervisors at their reorganization meeting last Thursday.

Supervisor H. C. W. Meyer of Mundelein, ranking member of the board both in age and point of service, was named as temporary chairman. The first vote taken showed thirty-one votes for Thompson and one each for Frank Stanton of Ingleside and Ira W. Holdridge of Waukegan. As neither of the two last named were candidates, the choice was virtually a unanimous one and the board confirmed it with an affirmative vote on the motion made by retiring chairman Roy Paddock.

Supervisor Thompson expressed his appreciation to the board for the honor bestowed upon him and bespoke their cooperation throughout his term. He expressed his confidence in Lake County and his belief that it is, and will continue to be, one of the foremost counties of the state. He stated that he should continue in the future, as he had in the past, to support a hard roads program.

Finance Situation Discussed

Speaking of last year's finance committee, Thompson said that he hoped the committee he appoints will follow the program of the present finance committee so far as expenditures are concerned, and that the board will follow implicitly the recommendations thus made.

Policewoman Is Requested

Representatives from the Lake County League of Women Voters, W. C. T. U., Y. W. C. A., and Humane Society appeared before the board with a request that a county policeman be appointed to safeguard the women and young girls of the county. Dance halls in the lake region furnished subject matter for most of the talks.

Requests for appointment of a policeman have been made repeatedly with the county taking the position that it did not have resources to defray the expense unless it could be met from the earnings of the sheriff's office. This has not been considered possible by court house officers. The present request was referred by the board to the finance committee.

Collection of Back Taxes Favored

Judge Martin Z. Decker made an appeal for revisions in the zoning ordinance to fit the lake regions better. Robert Kingery, of the Regional Planning Board of which the county is a member, spoke in behalf of that organization. He argued that provisions should be retained in the code for 100 foot right of way along principal roadways and that there should be no private roads in subdivisions but property owners should own to the center of the road. No definite action was taken on this and other questions coming before the board for the reason that there were no committees as yet organized to make recommendations.

The board adjourned late Thursday to meet again Friday, April 29, at which time Chairman Thompson will present his committee selections for approval.

"COLLEGIANS" TO PLAY AT THE ANTIOCH PALACE

"Chuck" Bricker and his "Collegians" will provide the music for dancing at the Antioch Palace next Saturday and Sunday evenings.

The "Collegians" come from Valparaiso, Ind., and have played all of the big fraternity parties at Indiana and Ohio universities. They come to the Palace highly recommended.

FRED SEMRAU POST TO GIVE TWIN LAKES OPENING

Fred Semrau Post of the American Legion will give the opening dance at Carl E. Rademacher's Twin Lakes Pavilion Saturday evening of this week.

The Legionnaires have secured the services of Frank Wallin and his Harmony Kings of Waukegan. This orchestra gained an enviable reputation for themselves this winter as radio entertainers while at the Madrid Ball Room. The Legion is making arrangements for a record crowd Saturday night.

PAVING CONTRACT LET FOR THREE STREETS

Work on Lake, Harden and Victoria Streets to be Rushed to Completion on or Before July 1

The contracts for the paving of Victoria and Harden Streets and of Lake Street were let by the village board Wednesday to the firm of Barron and Barron of Waukegan. Cost of paving including grading, paving, curb, gutter, sewer, manholes and everything necessary to the completion of the street, is to be $24,236.75 for Victoria and Harden streets combined and $25,140.50 for Lake street.

Work to be Done at Once

The work of paving will be begun at once and rushed to completion as early a moment as possible. It was felt by the members of the board that time was an element of great importance. Mr. Barron stated that their firm would begin the work immediately and would guarantee to have the entire job completed ready for travel by the first of July. "This is making allowance for adverse weather conditions," he said, "with even moderately favorable conditions we will be done long before that time." It was estimated that the actual work of paving each street would take two weeks with preparatory work on grading, sewers, etc., taking slightly less. After the completion of the pavement a period of approximately twenty-one days must elapse before the road can be opened to travel. Work will be rushed on Lake street especially.

Due to the fact that a Public Benefit of $9960 is to be turned over to the village by the state toward the expense of paving Lake street, bids were advertised for and received on the two parcels separately. As neither Barron and Barron nor their nearest competitors, the Frank W. Feutz Co., were the low bidders on both contracts and neither was desirous of undertaking one contract without the other, both contractors revised their bids to agree with the minimum price offered. Both firms received favorable comment from members of the board for their attitude toward one another, their competitors, and the board during the entire transaction.

Odd Fellows to Hold Anniversary Tonight

There will be a joint meeting this evening of Lake Lodge No. 703, I. O. O. F., and the local Lakeside Rebekah lodge. The occasion is the celebration of the 108th anniversary of the order. There is to be a program and entertainment followed by refreshments.

During the evening honors are to be awarded to seven members of the order who have belonged to the local lodge for twenty-five years or more. The honors will be in the form of lodge jewels, and will be received by Herman Beck, William Mullen, Nelson Pullen, W. W. Runyard, C. E. Hunt, Charles Smith, N. S. Burnette.

ANTIOCH GRADE SCHOOL TO HOLD EXHIBIT MAY 2

The Grade School will give an exhibit of its pupils' work on Monday afternoon and evening, May 2nd. The school will be open to the public from 2:30 to 5:00 in the afternoon and from 7:00 to 9:30 in the evening.

Parents are urged to come out and see specimens of their children's school work. This is an opportunity for the parents to have their name appear on the visiting record.

The teachers are eager to get acquainted with the pupils' mothers and fathers.

CATHOLIC LADIES

GIVE "500" PARTY

The "500" party given at Blue Willow Inn by the ladies of St. Peter's church last Thursday evening was well attended. More than 100 participated in the play. Late in the evening refreshments were served followed by awarding of the prizes. The affair netted the ladies $65.00.

Charles Shiley who has been very sick the past few weeks is at present on the gain.

CHAPTER XII

Williams thought lightly of his life. It had come to him that morning while thinking of the person he had found descending the stairs, the person he insisted was Mrs. Stokes.

It was a simple and practicable plan—a watch kept for the rest of the night on the stairs and certain points of exit. In the face of positive orders two people had come from the upper floor the night before, Miss Tracy on an errand that Watson thought suspicious. Mrs. Stokes, in Williams' opinion, to communicate with her husband. Even if both men were wrong some powerful incentive was making them take such risks and it was natural to suppose that incentive might be strengthened after twenty-four hours of strain and uncertainty. They might try it again, and to catch them at it, surprise them in the act—if they didn't break down on the spot—a little grilling would do the job.

Rawson looked at his assistant with an approving eye. The idea was good, excellent, and without waste of time they arranged the distribution of the watch.

Williams would take the front stairs. His particular prey was there and he had already located the position of the electric light button. Rawson would station himself in the kitchen with its two doors one to the outside, one to the hall. The living room they would assign to Stone, less important than either of the other ambushes, but commanding the entrance to the side wing and the path to the cause way and dock. Anyone descending the back stairs to make an exit from the house would enter turn to the kitchen or go through the living room, and whichever way they took, would run into a trap. The men were satisfied, each one was decided to the spot where he might expect to apprehend the object of his suspicion. The living room, central and exposed, might safely be left to Stone.

They found Stone in the butler's room sleeping, soundly on the outside of the door. He was made acquainted with the plan and stumbling and heavy-eyed followed them. In the hall Rawson left them taking his way to his hiding place, the other two turning on to the stairs. Stone's duties there he received in a brief, special explanation. Long and at the door that led to the kitchen, and the back stairs, Stone looked toward the door to Williams with a puzzled frown. He did not like to admit to more than he had liked to display the usually vague of his appearance that he was so sleepy it was doubtful whether he could keep awake. In this endeavor, however, when he desired to report himself, he would be sure to be at the door, and he would be sure to be at the door.

They last wanted to know who the person was, didn't they? He wouldn't have to enter them, which would be nearly impossible in the dark and was unnecessary as no one could get off the island. To see them, he could identify them, get onto who was, and round the house, the point. If that was enough, he'd a way of doing it, the surest and most effective way it could be done, he scrambling round the furniture, no uncertainty—he'd set his small camera for a flash light photograph. The materials were all at hand. All he had to do was to get them ready and if anyone entered by the door he was to watch, he'd have their number before they knew it.

Williams was interested. It was a neat trick and tickled his fancy. As he was ignorant of the process, Stone explained it, getting his properties from the cabinet as he spoke. The flash-light powder in a saucer on the table, then a double wire extending from it to a point above the door—the pair of batteries would answer. There the wire would be cut, one-half hanging down from the ceiling, the other twisted round the door handle, its end standing out. When the door was opened the two severed ends would come in contact and make the circuit which would set off the powder. He did not tell Williams that the taking of the picture could be achieved whether he was asleep or awake, but that the camera would make his record whatever his state was an immediate relief to his mind.

Williams left and he quickly completed his preparations. Before he made his final adjustment of the two wires he unlocked the latch of the door that it might open easily and noiselessly at the first push of a stealthy hand. Then, his camera in place, he turned off the lights. The room was suddenly plunged into Egyptian blackness; he had to feel for the chair he had pulled up, and, grasping the tripod, nearly upset it. Swearing under his breath, he found the arms of the chair and let himself down upon it carefully, to avoid creaking. The silence of the house closed around him, a silence that was like oblivion.

The darkness showed no break as his glance traveled over it. A solid, impenetrable wall, it was hard to look at, the eye required something to rest upon. After he had stared into it for what seemed a measureless stretch of time, he felt he must shut his eyes for a moment of respite. He did so, his head drooped, nodded, sunk, and he lay a big crumpled figure held in the embrace of the chair.

A bang in that silence as loud as a cannon shot—a rending burst of light waked him. Then from every side of the house noise broke, groans, screams, slamming of doors, thudding footfalls. Williams' voice shouted the first intelligible words:

"You got them—good work! Where the hell are the lights?"

That shook Stone into consciousness, and he called to the gallery, whence a patter of bare feet and female cries rose:

"It's all right. Don't be scared. It's only a flashlight."

Male voices followed, harsh and loud, as the men came rushing in.

"What are you doing here? What was that?"

Bussert's from the entrance, his body colliding with furniture as he ran blindly forward. Somewhere in the darkness behind, Stokes' high and choked, breaking into curses. And over all Miss Pinkney's riding the tumult like the war cry of the Valkyries:

"Why don't some of you fools turn on the electricity? The button's on the right side of the door."

Bussert's hand found it and the room was flooded with light.

The women in straight white night gowns stood on the gallery huddled together. The dreadful darkness lifted, they leaned over the railing their faces pallid between hanging looks of hair dropping a shower of questions on the men below, one of them was hysterical and gave forth a sobbing wail, and Williams shouted with angry authority:

"Keep quiet up there. Nothing's the matter. Didn't you hear it was a flashlight?"

Someone struggled in a scream. Williams thought it was Stone but could not be sure. That they made a simultaneous retreat to the bedrooms for refuge, he knew. The men's explanation. No, he had seen nothing, and heard nothing, but he'd got the picture all right, whoever it was, he had them. Now he'd go and develop it, he could do that in a few minutes, and there was the projector in the corner he could use, throw it into something where they'd all see. A shout over that screen by the desk would do.

They urged him out, they'd attend to everything, hurry up with the picture. Williams was unable to lift his station. His idea, augmented by Stone's, was a bull's-eye hit, and his voice showed an exultant exclamation as he called to Miss Pinkney to bring a sheet. Rawson's satisfaction was less apparent, but his eye was alight with anticipation. If it was the boy, he had run back upstairs, for no exit had been attempted through the kitchen. With the whole house astride he'd be afraid to come down and they had him safe as a rat in a trap. In patience he waited for Stone's reappearance, he left the room, saying he was going to the bathroom for a word with Patrick.

The noise of the women's footsteps on the stairs came in a descending rush. They burst in, their voices going before them, a scattering of gasped, explosive utterances:

"Can't you dead women keep still?"

Stokes ground out between his teeth.

Rawson roared. He had heard them as he caught up the path and stopped on the threshold looking at Anne, waiting to see if she would speak. But she said nothing, standing by Bussert, her hand braced against a table, her glance on the floor. She knew Rawson was watching her and would her form to an upright immobility, her face to a stony blankness. If she could hold herself this way, not move or speak, she could bear the tension. A touch, a word, and she felt that her body might break in pieces and her voice would be long-drawn screams to the skies.

The screen under its white covering was set in the place Stone had indicated, the projector put some distance back, facing it. To some of them those preparations had the ludicrous significance of those preceding an execution and all of them felt the deadly oppression of the approaching climax. The room was very still, as if an enchantment lay on it. At intervals Mrs. Cornell drew her breath with a low moaning sound, Stokes' hands clenched and unclenched on the chair-back and Williams looked at his watch. He began a guttural mutter

Lake Villa News

Win McFadden was taken to the Victory Memorial hospital last week Tuesday for treatment and will be there for some time. He has not been well all winter.

The entertainment given by the Lake Villa, Monaville and Cribb schools at the hall Friday evening was well rendered. People are now looking forward to the play being prepared by the eighth graders, under the direction of Mrs. Amy White of Grayslake, which will be given on the first Friday evening of May.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilton are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter born on Tuesday, April 18.

Mrs. Miller of Highland Park and who has traveled extensively in Europe was a guest of Mrs. James Atwell last week.

Mrs. Harriet Mitchell and Mrs. George Mitchell spent last week at the James Kerr home.

Helen Morrison of Chicago spent the Chicago vacation week with Dorothy Hooper here.

Mrs. Brennan and son Joe had a number of guests from the city over Sunday.

Alvin Dixon and wife of Waukegan called at the Harold Dixon home last Saturday.

Mrs. Daube was called to Chicago Monday by the death of an aunt.

The road past the Dering farms is all torn up now, being made ready for paving. The road crew has headquarters at the Dering farm.

Mrs. James Kerr, Mrs. Harriet Mitchell, Mrs. George Mitchell and Helen Ann drove to Whitewater, Wis., on Friday and Mrs. Ray Kerr, who was visiting her parents there, accompanied them back to Lake Villa. George Mitchell and Ray Kerr joined their families Saturday evening returning to the city Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Sherwood have arrived home from Florida where they have spent the last six months.

All the pupils of both grade and high schools enjoyed a vacation on Monday when their teachers attended a meeting of the Northern Illinois Teacher's Association at Evanston.

F. R. Sherwood is spending the week at his home here.

Mrs. Alice Howard is visiting relatives and friends in Chicago this week.

Mrs. G. C. Murphy of Walker, Ia., and her son, A. Murphy, who has just completed a course at Moody of Inglewood and stopped as the door opened and Stone came in.

The came quickly, bending an air of excitement to the already light-charged atmosphere. There was a hushed agitation in his face, and his words were broken and uncertain as he answered Williams' question:

"Yes, yes, I got it something—not quite made out—got me sort of flustered, hurrying so. You'll have to stand away there, folks." He turned to the projector, adjusting it then held the negative out toward Williams. "We'll probably lose this Mr. Williams. Doing it so quickly I couldn't fix it. It'll likely melt with the heat in here, won't last more than a few minutes. You don't want to keep it, do you?"

"Go ahead. It's only the picture—that's all that concerns us."

"All right—it's your say-so. You'll get it in a minute now and by gum, I want to see—" he stopped, his breath caught, his hands busy over the machine. "Now, then, we're ready. Some one please put out the lights."

Miss Pinkney pressed the button and the room dropped into darkness. A picture leaped into being on the screen. A door frame backed by solid, indistinguishable black, the edge of a door, and beyond it, the outlines melting into the darkness, the suggestion of a head and shoulders, only the face showing clear, looking at them with wide, questioning eyes—Sybil Sanders' face.

The silence held for a moment, then broke in an explosive volume of sound. The women's shrieks rose simultaneously—"Sybil! Sybil!" The name ran about the room, bent on the high ceiling and was buffeted from wall to wall.

"The dead woman?" Williams shook Stone's arm in his incredulous amazement.

"It is—It's her, I saw it when I developed it and I don't know—something's gone wrong."

A raucous cry rose above the chorus of female voices. Stokes had dropped his hold on the chair, his starting eyes fixed on the picture. From his lips, curled back like an angry dog's, came a strangled rush of words:

"She's dead. She's dead, for I killed her. I shot her—she's dead. She can't come back, she never can come back. I shot her as she ran—I killed her—I saw her fall—she's dead—dead!"

The words died in a groan. He pitched forward and lay a writhing moaning shape with hands that clawed and dug into the carpet. The men rushed at him, clustered about him, the women watching in dumb horror while the picture behind them slowly faded from the screen.

The Mother and Daughter banquet last Friday evening was enjoyed by 110 ladies young and old. The tables and food had been prepared by the committee, but at the hour of the banquet the ladies all were seated, the men took charge, and the meal was served in a very efficient manner. The committee had not overlooked one item which would make this a delightful affair, and all entered into the evening with the proper spirit. There was an honor table of three generations, seven families around our village being represented with mother, daughter and granddaughter. The program of music and speeches was carried on at the table with Mrs. A. H. Harter acting as toastmaster. The committee who planned and carried this out so successfully were Mrs. J. S. Denman, Mrs. E. A. Martin, Miss Vivian Bonner and Mrs. Carl Anderson.

The Ladies Aid will hold their May meeting at the church Thursday afternoon, May 5. Everyone is invited to the supper at 5 o'clock. It will be in charge of Mrs. Gordon Bonner, Mrs. Oscar Nelhaus and Mrs. Arthur Long.

For health and appearance sake

beware the splintery floor

Think of your wood floors—your kitchen floors—the stairs that lead to the cellar or basement—the other under-foot surfaces that need attention.

Why not beautify them? Why not cover them with a good, durable coat of Acme Quality Granite Floor Enamel? It does more than beautify. It armor-coats the floor. It prevents wear and tear—does away with the scuffing up of splinters which help to harbor dirt and not only make more scrubbing necessary, but all scrubbing difficult.

STYLES IN CROOKS' WEAPONS CHANGE

Carefully Selected Pistol Is Now Favorite.

New York.—The weapon would have appealed to anyone with a liking for firearms; its long blue barrel looked grim and forbidding, and though its curved butt was blunt with ivory there was nothing suggestive of a toy about it. On the contrary, this pistol, well oiled and polished, gave the impression that it was ready at all times for action.

A stroke of good fortune had landed both weapon and owner in the hands of the police. A detective carefully extracted the bullets from the chamber, counted them and placed them in an envelope for future reference. He remarked that from his observations the pistol is today the favorite weapon of the crook.

The criminal selects his weapon with great care and does not hesitate to pay a good price for it. Indeed, he seldom buys a cheap weapon; most of the firearms which the police have seized and confiscated are in first-class working condition. The crook usually carries a .32 or a .38, though occasionally he takes a .45. However, as a rule he finds this caliber of pistol too large and unwieldy for his purpose. He prefers a smaller weapon since it is easier to conceal.

"Crooks," said a detective, "use a great variety of weapons. Just as a shoemaker is known by his last a thief is known by the instruments he carries. You can usually tell by a crook's weapon what particular line of criminality he follows. A decade ago crooks used a great many more kinds of weapons than they do now. The average criminal is content with a single weapon.

Pistol the Favorite.

"A large percentage of criminals have discarded other weapons solely for the pistol.

"When hold-ups were quite common detectives intercepted three robbers as they ran from a store. One of them had a formidable ungazette gun. He had cut off the rounded points of the bullets and had flattened them out, obviously with the intention of plowing a big hole in the anatomy of a victim he might feel inclined to shoot. The incident suffices to show the callousness and cruelty of the average criminal and how little he cares for human life.

"There are plenty of men in the department today who can recall the time when gun-toting criminals were much more the exception than the rule. Indeed, there were any number of professional crooks who never used firearms in their business. They used other weapons which answered their purpose better, and some of their favorite weapons are seldom seen or heard of now.

"The club was a primitive weapon and was superseded by the sandbag, which worked effectively and left few marks. A short piece of rubber hose was used for the same purpose. The sandbag is out of date, but occasionally crops up.

"The sandbag was discarded for the blackjack. A blow from a loaded blackjack will put anyone quickly to sleep. Akin to the blackjack are brass knuckles, and frequently a victim is unable to say whether he has been hit by one or the other. Both of them are occasionally used today by thugs. They are regarded as deadly weapons and it is no serious offense to have them in one's possession as a pistol.

"A few years ago a long, sharp-bladed knife or a dagger vied with the pistol in popularity. Indeed, there were far more stabbing affrays than shootings that came under the notice of the police. The wielder of dagger or knife often used these instruments with deadly effect, and occasionally some one would be stabbed to death. In recent years there has been a big falling off in such crimes and instead of being stabbed people are now shot.

Gunman a Weakling.

"The gun-toting criminal is a recent product. He attained his full prominence a few years ago when crime was rampant. He is a different product from the old-type criminal who was strong and robust and did not need a gun. The present-day gunmen are invariably puny, undersized men, and are weak mentally as well as physically. You see innumerable examples of them as they drift into station houses; and they are all alike—sallow, frail, undersized, the sickliest-looking lot of criminals the world ever saw.

"They are only during when they are under the spell of narcotics. A large number of criminals are confirmed drug addicts, and in order to keep themselves supplied with drugs they will often take a desperate chance. Some of these criminal addicts spend $5 to $25 a day on drugs. A good many crooks who hold up drug stores do so to get narcotics. It is common for one of them to demand narcotics of a druggist. If they are unable to get their favorite drug they will hold up a store to get money with which to purchase drugs.

"It is seldom criminals get drunk when they have serious work to do. They realize that a drunken holdup man would not get very far. He would be slow in action and liable to queer the whole works. This happened when a drunken Italian attempted to hold up a Chicago hotel."

BRISTOL

On Tuesday afternoon of last week a wind of a cyclone nature swept over Bristol Township doing a considerable amount of damage. There was also a deluge of driving rain which lasted about one half hour. The barn owned by Charles Castle was completely demolished, part of the timbers were blown into the house and windows of the house broken. Many silos throughout this vicinity were blown down, among which were those owned by Mrs. Hattie Hofferter, Fred Bohn, and George Jenson. Several hen houses were torn to pieces. Part of the Galena coal house was unroofed. The screen porches on the Jacobson, Stewart, Gethen and Evan Jones residences were blown off and other minor damage done. C. Youk, who was on the roof of his new store which he is erecting near the Castle home was hurled to the cement road in front. Three autos were parked in front of the Castle home during the storm. They were uninjured by the flying timbers and debris flying past them.

St. Ignatius' Church Notes
Episcopal
Kalendar—Second Sunday after Easter.

7:30—Holy Communion.
8:00—Agape.
9:30—Sunday School.
10:30—Matins and Sermon.
3:15—Leave for Easter Rally at Libertyville.

Last Sunday Dr. Randall's presence and inspiration was a pleasure. It is good for us to have visitors in our midst.

Next Sunday morning will be a Corporate Easter Communion of all the young people of the Parish, especially those who were members of the last Confirmation class. Breakfast will be served in the Undercroft of the Parish House for those who care to stay. Let Mrs. W. H. Osmond know if you plan to be there. Your presence is expected.

The sermon topic next Sunday, "Higher Self-Control," is one of vital interest and of a very practical nature to all. See 2 Timothy 2:1. Do you worship God or Yourself?

At 3:15 the cars will leave for the Annual Easter Rally of the United North Shore Parishes which will be held at Libertyville this year. It is expected that several hundred young people will attend. The Lenten milk-box offerings of the Parishes are presented at the service. The money is used to further the cause of Christian Missions throughout the world. "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature." A command!

The young men of the Brotherhood will give a dance Wednesday evening, May 4, at the Parish house. Tickets are 35 cents and may be purchased at Klass's store or of any of the members. Lloyd Murrie is the Director of the local Chapter of the Order.

May the 8th, is Mothers' Day and the 10:30 service on that day will be in her honor. The Christian church has honored Mothers and given them a place in society of which pagan civilization never dreamed. How fine to see the Sons and Daughters in Church with Mother! What an honor to honor her spiritual presence if she has gone on. On Monday evening there will be a banquet in honor of the Mothers in the Undercroft of the Parish house. The young women will prepare the food and the young men will be the waiters for a change and give Mother a minute of peace. There will be speeches, music, songs, flowers and a good time. Plan to be there.

Any men or women or young people that would like to have Confirmation instruction concerning the church and the individual see Mr. Dixon and make arrangements to take the course.

Methodist Church Notes

Chains Her Children to Keep Tab on Them

Modesto, Calif.—Mrs. Louise E. Lenzen is fighting to retain custody of seven children, three of whom were found by probation officers chained, tied and strapped in Mrs. Lenzen's ranch house at Patterson, near here. "I tied them up because it was the only way I could keep track of them," she said.

The probation officers reported they found an eleven-year-old girl strapped to a bed, a three-year-old boy with his hands strapped behind his back, and another child tied to a chair in a sitting position, unable to move. Four other children, they said, showed signs of cruelty and malnutrition.

One of the children is an adopted daughter of Mrs. Lenzen and the others are her grandchildren.

Beaumont Breaks Record in Making Double Plays

The Washington American leaguers set a world record in 1923 when they came through with 182 double plays, but the Beaumont club of the Texas league beat that record by 18 during the 1926 campaign, executing 208 duplex killings. The infield that took part in most of these double plays was composed of Galloway, a veteran minor league manager, on first; Cow-boy Tom Connolly, who was with Washington some 11 years ago, at second; Bernie Duverson, who had been purchased by Detroit, at short, and Paddy Regan, a youngster, at third.

Regan started but few double plays, but Duverson and Connolly worked together with perfection. And the queer part of it all was that none of the quartet ever had worked with the others prior to last year.

There were few eyes in the congregation with no tears.

Next Sunday evening the church will have as their guest the Old Fellows and Rebekah lodges of this vicinity. It is the occasion of this 108th Anniversary since the founding of the organization in America. The Reverend A. M. Krahl will preach and special music will be provided. Not only are the members of the order invited but the many friends of the church will find a cordial welcome.

As is the custom of the church the morning services will be devoted to prayer and praise. The sermon will center around the theme "When your wish is granted, what then?" You will want to be present at this service. Come and bring that invited guest.

Wide Pants, Short Skirt Start Rumanian Riot

Bucharest, Rumania.—Armed police had to be called upon here to rescue Rumanian dudes, exponents of the "charleston" trousers, as Oxford bags are called here, and pen jackets and pumcke hats, from a mob of self-appointed sartorial censors who asserted their esthetic sensibilities had been outraged by the exotic raiment.

One youth, cornered by 200 men, was forced to promise to change his trousers. Police rescued him and, with drawn bayonets to keep back the crowd, took him to the station house.

The fair sex is not escaping the attentions of the censors. Several girls with skirts considered too short have been the objects of demonstrations, but thus far there have been no casualties, either to skirts or hanger trousers.

Marble Steps Are Test for Baltimore Wives

Baltimore.—Miles of white marble steps in Maryland's largest city maintain their purity of line through the daily labor of housewives upon their knees with scrubbing brushes, soap suds and pumice stone.

The pristine glory of the front doorstep is counted a direct measure of housewifely efficiency in the residential sections. The luckless sister who suffers the grime of yesterday to remain on her front stoop later than noon is likely to encounter the scorn, pity or levity of her neighbors.

On summer evenings the white stoops double for front yard and portico. The families gather upon them while neighborhood gossip eddies up and down the streets.

To Sell Home of Author of "Home, Sweet Home"

New York.—"Home, Sweet Home" is for sale. The inspiration for John Howard Payne's famous sentimental song, the old gray farmhouse, aged by the snows of many winters, in which the author spent his boyhood at East Hampton, Long Island, is to go to the highest bidder.

The home was owned by Gustave H. Buck, president of the Alco Granite company, until his death recently. Now his widow, Mrs. Hannah Louise Buck, has announced her intention of disposing of the property.

VARSITY SPORTS ARE GREAT NEED

Receipts From Games Raise Physical Standards.

Big games are necessary to the development of the youth of the country through intramural athletics, says Wallace Wade, coach at the University of Alabama.

"The receipts from the big games pay the way for intramural athletics and it is through them the physical standards of students must be raised. It is coming to be recognized that the duties of schools and colleges call for training of men morally and physically, as well as mentally," Coach Wade said. "During the early days of this country it was not necessary to have courses in athletics in schools. Children lived much out of doors and had daily tasks to perform which gave them exercise and outdoor life. Today the young men and women spend their time outside of school riding in automobiles, going to picture shows and generally taking part in a life which calls for no physical exercise."

"It is not only necessary to give the youth of the country proper physical training, but it is necessary to have competitive games. It is easier to get students to take part in competitive games than in gymnasium work. Again, there is a training in sportsmanship and fair play to be received from competitive sports that cannot be received elsewhere."

"Varsity football has an influence on intramural athletics in two ways. First, it acts as an incentive and inspiration for those taking part in intramural sports, and, second, and most important, the money which is needed to pay for intramural athletics comes from receipts of varsity football. During the past twenty years football has increased very rapidly until tremendous amounts of money are received by colleges from big games. So long as the surplus is used to pay the way of intramural athletics there can be no harm in big receipts."

"Athletics occupy a place in our present-day civilization that cannot be filled by anything else. It gives youth a training needed to develop good citizens and there is no other place for such training."

MAY FETE TO BE GIVEN BY PRIMARY GRADES

Friday, May 6, at 8 o'clock the first, second and third grades will give an indoor May Fete at the High School gymnasium.

Some of the numbers to be presented are: Crowning the May Queen, May Pole dance, folk dances and health exercises.

A NOTE OF APPRECIATION

I wish in this manner to express my appreciation to those who helped to make the opening of the Antioch Palace a success; to the Host Committee for the active part they took in welcoming the guests; to the Firemen whose assistance was invaluable in maintaining law and order, in parking cars and regulating traffic, and who did cheerfully and without stint whatever was asked of them; to Mr. Wedge for the contribution he made toward the opening; to the Antioch Business club, First National bank, J. C. Nixon, H. B. Gaston, E. M. Runyard, Mr. Schomel of Oak Park, Oliver Johnson, and the Antioch Lumber and Coal company for the gifts of flowers; and to Mr. Doolittle for the cooperation of the state highway police; and to all others who contributed in any way to the success of the opening.

BOY, 14, ADMITS LONG SERIES OF POOR-BOX RAIDS

Twenty-five-cent Haul Leads to Undoing After Theft
Up to $100.

Mount Kisco, N. Y.—With the arrest of four boys between the ages of eleven and fourteen years police declared they had solved the mystery of thefts from the poor boxes in St. Francis' Roman Catholic church over a period of two years. The leader of the gang is Patsy Mattoni, fourteen years old, who at that age already has a long police record.

He and his first lieutenant, Lawrence Franzese, also fourteen and also at liberty on probation for former robberies, are to have a trial here before Judge Appel of the County Children's court. The two boys, Lawrence's brother, Joe, eleven, and Joe Pataro, the same age, are paroled in custody of their parents, but must appear at the trial with their leaders.

Seen by Sexton.

Mattoni was arrested after the section had seen him leaving the church. The police, acting upon the description given by the sexton, questioned the boy, and after finding a pair of gloves in his pockets taken from a table in the church he confessed and named the other boys as confederates.

According to Mattoni's story to the police, he committed the first robbery about two years ago. Designating Pataro to take one of the boxes across the street to an old barn, he supervised the opening of it, he said, while the Franzese boys acted as lookouts.

About $100 was taken from the box, after which Pataro was sent into the church for another, which was found to be empty. The two younger boys were given $1 each and Mattoni and Lawrence Franzese divided the remainder of the loot.

Last December they took a box containing about $75, Mattoni said. Recently Mattoni decided to "go it alone," and jimmied one of the boxes in the church with a pair of scissors. This netted $8, which he pocketed. The other day he made the raid which proved his undoing and found only 25 cents in the box. He had spent the 25 cents when arrested.

At a preliminary hearing Judge Stewart sent Mattoni and Lawrence Franzese to the Children's village at Dubois Ferry pending trial.

The series of robberies at the church had baffled police and members of the sheriff's office working on the case. Several attempts had been made to obtain fingerprints after the losses were discovered, but Ray Hill, the county identification expert, was unable to get a fair specimen. Other local robberies of a petty nature are expected to be cleared up by the roundup of the youngsters.

Sell Diamond Rings for a Dime Apiece

Cornel, Neb.—The seemingly impossible task of finding $5,000 worth of diamonds, stolen from a Denver jewelry store and tossed from a fast-moving passenger train by the robbers to escape detection, ended when it was discovered that two youths had picked up the gems while walking along the Union Pacific right of way near here. Arthur Strongmeyer, eighteen years old, and Leroy Christopher, twenty-two, were unaware of the value of the stones. Discovery of their find was made when their parents investigated reports that they were selling "phony" rings for 10 cents each.

Doctor's Will Ignored to Save Mother's Life

Sioux City, Iowa—Direction that his body be sent to the state university at Iowa City for postmortem work by students was made in the will of Dr. J. W. B. Placette, World war veteran, who died in Sioux City a few days ago. The fact that Doctor Placette's mother, who is ninety-two years old, objected to her son's bequest, caused the family to disobey that clause in the will and bury the body at Jefferson, S. D. The family found that carrying out of the will's terms would be a shock that would kill the physician's mother.

Marshal Jumps From Train to Arrest Man

Owensboro, Ky.—As a Louisville & Nashville passenger train was passing through Central City, Deputy United States Marshal James Bales, who was aboard, noticed Luther Devine, a man he has sought for some time, standing on the platform. Bales jumped off the moving train, took Devine into custody and shoved him on the train. He then told Devine he had a warrant for his arrest, charging him with possessing 12 gallons of moonshine liquor.

Devine was brought to Owensboro, arraigned before United States Commissioner H. H. Slack, waived examining trial and was released on bond of $350 to appear before the May term of the federal grand jury.

NASH Leads the World in Motor Car Value

A More Distinctive Style in Motor Cars—Achieved by Nash

For those who hope to find their cars at the very peak of style and luxury, Nash has created this charming Special Sedan on the Special Six Chassis.

Its graceful profile suggests the custom-car design of Parisian boulevards. Here is the low-slung French-profile effect so desirable today.

Every interior detail is luxurious. The upholstery is tailored in exquisite Mohair Velvet. Window mouldings, door panels and instrument board are in walnut finish. And there is a walnut steering wheel.

And the way this car performs is every bit as enjoyable as its sparkling style.

It has the Nash 7-bearing motor—as do all Nash models—for superlative smoothness at every speed.

It has the Nash tubular-trussed frame, for extra strength and steadiness, to guard the body from destructive strains.

And it has power! Nash models, all of them, have extra power for exhilarating acceleration, on the hills, and in the traffic.

Compare this car to others sold at the same price—$1485 f. o. b. factory—and you cannot fail to decide you would rather have the Nash.

BIG ANIMAL SHOW WAUKEGAN, FRIDAY

Something New Promised in Christy Bros. Big Five Ring Wild Animal Show

All roads will lead to Waukegan on Friday, May 6th, when Christy Brothers Big Five Wild Animal show will exhibit there. This is not the old show of yesterday, but a new and modern amusement enterprise that does away with the old circus ideas and introduces new, modern and up-to-the-minute animal stunts that produces thrills and interest to both the old and young.

The show is presented in five big rings and opens with the latest of all spectacular introductions. It is a biblical pageant with true and interesting numbers from the different parts of the bible and as the curtain rises Noah and his ark are seen with the different animals passing out into the world. Then Daniel is taken from his followers and cast into the den of lions. The wild beasts from the forest fall to harm him and the introduction of the lion and the lamb lying together is a masterful piece of animal training. The Rock of Ages, the Holy City and other interesting events happen. Thirty-six liberly horses in an exciting feature act.

CHEVROLET HEAD FINDS BUSINESS OUTLOOK GOOD

Says Employment Conditions are Better and Crop Production Is Gaining

Marked evidence of further prosperity that seems to be in store for the country generally throughout the current year was pointed out by E. L. Grant, vice president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, who has just concluded a series of 21 nationwide sales meetings that brought him into close touch with business conditions from coast to coast. During the course of the meetings, which consumed three months, Mr. Grant addressed more than 15,000 people and enjoyed an excellent opportunity to survey trade conditions at first hand.

"Business conditions over the United States, as we saw them in the first three months of the year, more than justified the optimistic forecasts made last December," Mr. Grant declared. "Trade activity and soundness in the early months have demonstrated the accuracy of the opinion that the year should be an excellent one for American business."

"Every factor that should contribute to good business is at hand. Everywhere we found optimism and confidence amid unusual activity for the time of the year. Everywhere was reflected the financial wealth stability of the country."

"The aggregate and individual wealth is the greatest ever; savings deposits and business done through checking account are constantly reaching new levels and a more even distribution of wealth is contributing to further economic soundness."

"Excellent reasons for the belief that prosperity will attend trade throughout the year are found in every section of the country. Crop diversification has helped the south. Plenty of rain and snow in the Pacific Coast Region, the last part of the country to be visited, assures good irrigation for crops in that territory. Increased employment in the industrial sections of the middle west is giving those regions greatly increased buying power. Strides in the direction of further diversification in the Northwest should make the grain country a bigger factor in the buying market. The corn belt too is preparing for its biggest season. Galus being made in our own business in New York and New England are surprising."

Commenting on the activity in the automobile business, Mr. Grant declared that the year holds unusual promise for the motor trade.

"Chevrolet should enjoy the greatest year in its history," he said. "The popularity of the car is being reflected in the sensational public reception being accorded it in all sections of the country, with registrations showing a tremendous increase over the record of the corresponding period of a year ago."

"In response to the greatest demand in the history of the Chevrolet Motor company, our factories in March produced 107,900 units, shattering all previous monthly production records and surpassing the best previous month by more than 22,000 units."

Element of Luck

Luck is generally described as something that happens seemingly by chance. It may be an event either good or evil which affects the interests or happenings of an individual, but this happening is entirely casual. "Lucky," however, carries the idea of good luck only.

He Who Laughs Last

Our young friend, Clarence Snodgrass, says there are times when he who laughs last is the fellow who intended to tell the same funny story that produced the laughter but was beaten to it.

Union Free High School "How Your Own Horn" the Senior Class play will be held on Friday evening, May 6. This date was purposely set early to avoid some of the confusion that always occurs in the last weeks of school. Reserved seats will be on sale at the high school office beginning Monday, May 2. The best seats are usually sold very early. The only real comic character in the play is Mac Anders, an insouciant old gardener, who delights in reminding the millionaire, Nicholas Small, of his many pranks as a boy, much to the mortification of the haughty Mr. Small. Mac Anders speaks in a slow drawl and seems to be unwelcome wherever he appears. Don Tyler is proving to be a decided hit in this role, which is a new part for him to play. Mrs. Mac Anders, the nagging wife, who aspires to social recognition from Mr. Small, is played by Alice Randall. The part of Dick Dunbar is at some times pathetic and at others humorous. Dick is the little brother of Jack Dunbar, and is penniless and hungry. His rough talk and manners to ladies of culture is bound to provoke many laughs.

Mr. and Mrs. Jolyon proud of their aristocratic name, are penniless and see an opportunity to gain wealth by marrying their son Augustus to Ann Small, daughter of the millionaire. The haughty parents are portrayed by William Fiebel and Ruth Barber. Augustus, the bashful son, who is more interested in the invention of a phonograph than marriage, is played by Leo Lelling.

The date of the Junior Prom has been set for May 20. Millar's orchestra of Woodstock has been engaged for the occasion.

Students of the commercial department participated in their first district contest at West Allis Saturday, April 23rd. Iola Harm competed in rapid calculation, Dean Loftus and Norman Jellele in bookkeeping, and Bernice Harm and Ruth Barber in typewriting. Each representative made a creditable showing, especially Ruth Barber, who ranked third in type writing. As a result she is entitled to compete in the State contest, at Whitewater on May 14. The showing made by these students is an honor to the school and a credit to Miss Hansen, the Commercial teacher.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Higgins were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sage and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sage, Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. George Sage and family from Libertyville; Mr. and Mrs. Annette and Mr. and Mrs. Petera of Evanston and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Higgins from Kenosha.

son, Hardin, Keulman, Thompson, and Snyder.

League Schedule is Completed

H. L. Lasco, manager of the local team, and Ed Drom attended the meeting of the officials of the league in Waukegan last Friday. The schedule was drawn up and the contract cards were explained by chairman Frank Egur. Four more teams wanted to enter the league, but directors decided that a ten team league was as large as desirable. Another league may be formed if enough teams are found to enter it.

At the inception of the league it was thought that games could not be played at Antioch because of the lack of a diamond. However, B. F. Naber consented to permit the use of what is known as the "Old Ball Park" and arrangements have now been made whereby Antioch will play the majority of its games at home. Business club officers and members have assured the boys of their consideration and support and the boys bespeak for their enterprise the cooperation of all the baseball fans of Antioch and community in order that they can put their stuff across and put Antioch on the baseball map. The park will be repaired and the diamond put in shape as soon as the weather will permit.

The West Side A. C. of Waukegan will be here Sunday to open the season officially on the home diamond. Batteries for the game will be Dietmeyer and Litz for Waukegan and Brittan and Hatman for Antioch. Umpires will be sent by the officials of the association of which both teams are a member. The game will be called at 2:00 o'clock.

Schedule for First Round

"TIGER CHILD" RESCUED AT FIVE FROM TIGRESS

Strange Tale From India Resembles That of the "Wolf Children."

Loulan.—News of a "tiger child," reared by a jungle tigress and "rescued" at five years of age to grow to ferocious manhood, has followed the recent report of two "wolf children," alleged to have been seen by a native missionary.

Like that of the wolf children, the story of the tiger child comes from India. An unnamed magistrate in central India is authority for it. He is quoted as saying he heard of it twenty years ago.

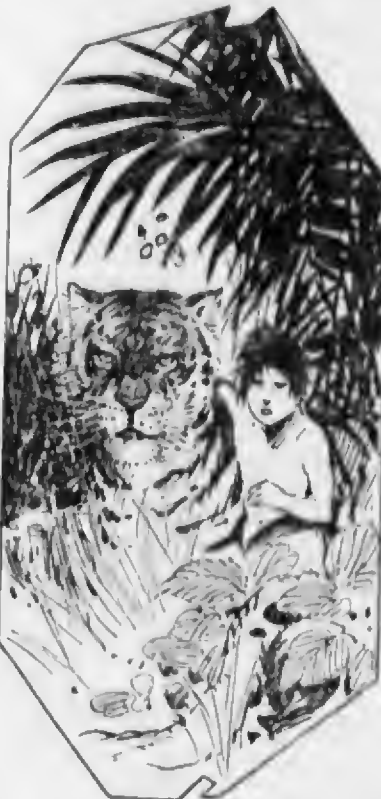

"I was taking evidence against a fierce prisoner, an alleged robber. A strong, ferocious looking man of forty, he stood in chains before me. I heard, in native dialect, mention of the word 'tiger child,' and when I inquired the inspector of police present told me the prisoner had been brought up by a tiger.

Child Is Rescued.

"Naturally curious, I investigated the case. Villagers told me that a party of hunters in the jungle came across a tigress, her two cubs, and something that looked like a human child. The tigress and cubs escaped; the child was caught and taken to the village. There the head man of the village adopted it, feeding it on raw meat and rice. It was about five years old, wild and ferocious.

"For some time the tigress prowled about the village howling for the child. Finally the villagers managed to kill it.

"The child gradually accustomed itself to village life and to wearing a loin cloth, the usual dress of the Kols.

Brought Up by a Tiger.

tribe with which it lived. It learned to speak after some years, worked with the other villagers and married and had two children when it grew to manhood.

Friend of Wild Animals.

"The man, like the child, remained ferocious. Tigers in the jungle never disturbed him, nor was he afraid of them.

"I might add that there was no evidence of robbery against the man when he was before me, and he was discharged."

The same magistrate told of a "bear child" of which he had heard—then an old woman, who, it was said, was taken in childhood from a bear.

Scientists remain unimpressed by now frequent stories of children reared by wild animals, either among others the fact that most wild animals kill even their own young if they are unable to shift for themselves after a few months.

Takes Nap in Lifeboat, Carried Across Atlantic

New York.—As a result of over-sleeping in his hiding place in a lifeboat, Joseph Eggermaler, a Czechoslovak, who had stowed away on the French liner Paris at Havre with the intention of disembarking at Plymouth, England, made a 5,000-mile trip across the Atlantic. He arrived on the Paris recently and was turned over to the immigration authorities. He had to go back on the same vessel.

Eggermaler, who is a motion-picture camera man, was in Liege, Belgium, when he decided to go to England. He walked the 600 miles to Havre and boarded the Paris by means of a visitor's pass.

The trip to Plymouth takes eight hours, and as he was exhausted he decided to spend most of it sleeping. He woke up twenty-four hours later, when the Paris was well on her way to New York.

Wire Travels From Foot to Neck in 38 Years

Toronto, Ont.—Thirty-eight years after his foot was sewed up with a silver suture, the silver wire used to close the wound was drawn from the mouth of John Tyndal. During all the years since the silver stitch disappeared under his instep, Tyndal never felt it until a month ago he was bothered with a slight lump in his neck. Dr. Pomeroy of Highgate, who put the stitches in, identified the suture.

Grain Rust Damage To Be Controlled Here

The high school students were given an interesting lecture by R. W. Bills, who is engaged in publicity work by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

He showed the pupils several specimens of the "common barberry bush" which harbors and spreads the black stem rust of wheat, rye, oats and barley and explained how there may be some of the bushes growing in this vicinity. Lantern slide pictures were used to show places in which bushes have been found and to illustrate the talk. The pupils were urged to report the locations of any of these bushes that they may find.

This species of bush has been brought here from Europe and used as ornamental shrubbery since the time the first colonists came to America. Because of the hardness of this and the red berries which hang on the bush through the winter it has been prized as an ornament. European countries have been destroying their bushes for years since they noticed that their grain crops were badly rusted whenever any of these bushes were growing in the vicinity. England and Denmark have this disease controlled since they have finished destroying all of their common barberry bushes.

The United States was slower in beginning this work. It was not until 1919 that the campaign to rid the grain belt of this pest was begun. At that time, nurserymen were notified to destroy any stock that they had on hand and have not sold any since. The Department of Agriculture has been engaged in a systematic inspection of all properties to find and destroy those that were planted beforehand. In most of the northern counties of Illinois hundreds of cases have been found where more bushes are now growing wild where birds have scattered the berries that they picked off from the bushes growing in people's yards. They are being found now along creeks, rivers, in woodland and along fences.

The barberry resembles a wild gooseberry bush. It has thorns along the branches, usually three prongs at a place, and the roots and inner bark are a bright yellow. Anyone knowing where barberry bushes are growing should report the location to the high school. If you are not sure whether or not the bush that you find is a barberry take a twig of the bush to the school. They can communicate with the officials who will take care of the bushes. Several have been found this week and reported.

The Japanese barberry which is used as a low ornamental hedge around properties is harmless and should not be destroyed.

An exhibit of the common barberry showing the work it does in damaging grain crops is on display at The State Bank of Antioch.

Few Leave Great Wealth

Eleven people out of 100—whose estates are probated with the courts—bequeath to their heirs less than $500; ten leave from $500 to $1,000; twenty from $1,000 to $2,500. Between five and six leave estates from $25,000 to $50,000.

ALIMONY MARTYR 3 YEARS IN JAIL

Refuses to Contribute to His Former Wife's Support.

Willows, Calif.—Samuel W. Reid, California's "alimony martyr," who is serving a life sentence in jail rather than pay alimony to his divorced wife, has started the third year of his confinement.

Reid attracted nationwide attention in 1925 when he declared he would go to jail before he would obey the injunction of Superior Judge C. F. Purditt of Glenn county to pay alimony toward the support of his former wife, who, he insists, has now remarried her first husband.

"It isn't fair," he declared. "If he wants her he can support her. I'll not pay a cent toward her support if I lie in jail until I die."

Reid let his hair and beard grow long as a mark of resentment at the court's action. After sixteen months of imprisonment he was taken from the jail for a sanity test. A commission of aliens pronounced him perfectly sane. At that time he permitted his hair to be cut and his beard to be shaved.

After the examination, Judge Purditt again ordered him to jail and Reid began to let his hair and beard grow again.

"I am a victim of injustice and personal spite," said Reid. "I am perfectly willing to pay for the support of our three-year-old child if she is put in the proper kind of a home. But no money for my ex-wife. Maybe my conduct seems peculiar, but it's the course I have chosen, and the course I propose to stick to."

Sheriff Roy Denard says the "martyr" is a model prisoner. Reid is a veteran of the World war, serving for eight months in France with the A. E. F. and receiving an honorable discharge in San Francisco.

Dog Barks Suicide Pact, Saves Lives of Owners

Vienma.—Their dog's antipathy to suicide, or at least to gas as a way of committing suicide, was responsible for the rescue alive of a Viennese accountant and his wife who attempted to asphyxiate themselves.

The accountant and his wife, discouraged by their troubles, closed the windows and doors of their apartment, opened all of the gas jets, and lay down on the bed to die in each other's arms.

By accident, or maybe because they wished that their dog should accompany them into the beyond, they heard their dog up in the house with them.

The dog had different views. As soon as the gas became unpleasant he sought fresh air by jumping through the glass window pane.

Rumored to the porter the dog barked until the latter investigated.

The dog's master and mistress were resuscitated and now all three are again trying to make the best of life.

Uses for Vulcanite

Vulcanite, or ebonite, is a dark brown or black form of India rubber. Its hardness is due to the presence of more sulphur than soft rubber contains, and to the fact that it is "vulcanized" at a high temperature. It is used for the mouthpieces of pipes, for combs, for screw-stoppers in bottles, and largely as an insulator in electrical instruments.

Academic Dispute

A dispute has arisen among scientists as to whether a lightning flash is a solid or jagged. For the man who tries to hold it in, the question is purely academic.
